ITALY PROTESTS TO LEAGUE ABOUT ARMS EMBARGO

"General Staff" of League
Counters by Cutting Off
Credit and Vital Goods

TEXT OF NOTE WITHHELD

Germany Pays League Long-
Standing Debt and Is Free
To Deal With Italy

GENEVA, Switzerland, Oct. 12.—Italy today dispatched a note to the League of Nations protesting the arms embargo imposed yesterday, but the League of Nations "general staff" countered with definite plans for cutting off Italy's credit and vital commodities. The text of Italy's note was not immediately made public.

The financial sub-committee went to work on a resolution to block all future credit to Italy.

According to many League observers, if economic and financial sanctions now being imposed fail to halt the Italian troops within two months, a naval blockade will be applied. Great Britain, France, Roumania and Greece make up the committee. The committee is meeting this afternoon to list the merchandise falling under the League embargo against Italy. It is believed the first items of high importance to Italy's industries and war will be coal, iron, nickel copper, scrap iron, rubber and leather.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—The Abyssinian Consul at Djibouti, French Somaliland, today "confirmed" according to an Exchange Telegraph, that the Abyssinian guard had achieved a flanking movement on the night on October 9th at Adowa, capturing the Italian rear guard and causing heavy casualties. The Consul, said the dispatch, did not say Adowa had been recaptured. Italian circles continued to deny any Ethiopian success in that sector.

LONDON, England, Oct. 12.—Great Britain is now only taking the lead in cutting off Italy's supplies of arms, commodities and money, but London financial houses, it was learned today, are ready to help Ethiopia directly with aid in purchasing arms. Financial circles of the city revealed, are willing to advance reasonable credit to Ethiopia for arms provided Emperor Haile Selassie can provide good security.

GENEVA, Oct. 12.—Germany today completely washed her hands of all dealings with the League of Nations when the Reich paid a long standing debt of 5,000,000 gold francs, $1,630,000, leaving Germany free to deal with Italy in any way Chancellor Hitler and his ministers wish. Germany will now be able to leave the League on Oct. 21 when her notice of withdrawal expires, without any strings and under no obligation to join in the sanctions that other nations are now drawing tighter around Italy.

REVIEWS CURRENT EVENTS FOR LOCAL CLUB MEMBERS

Hope LaBar Roberts Speaker
At Meeting of The Travel Club

HOLD FOOD EXCHANGE

The Bristol Travel Club's first regular meeting of the season took place Friday afternoon, October 12, in the Club Home on Cedar street.

From 2 to 3 o'clock the food exchange, in charge of Mrs. Frank Lehm, was actively and sociably in progress.

The President, Mrs. John J. Williams called the meeting to order at 3 o'clock. For half an hour the reading of records, reports of committees, consideration of new members and other routine matters were underway.

The speaker of the day, Hope LaBar Roberts, needed no introduction to the club. She was welcomed as an old friend.

Laying the foundation for a series of talks this winter on current events, Mrs. Roberts indicated the trend of world affairs through this momentous summer of 1935. Her audience followed her breathlessly as symbolically, she turned the globe of the earth before them, tracing from country to country an inevitableness in the succession of occurrences. South America, Mexico, China and Japan, India and England, France, Italy, Ethiopia, Germany. The Mediterranean, Suez Canal and our own country, each for a moment leaped to attention with a hint of its tremendous problems and of its outstanding personages.

"Imponderables" it was suggested, are the decisive factors in the history of a nation as in that of a person. To overcome that inertia of the public that leads to disaster, "enlightenment" is the necessity.

Summing up, Mrs. Roberts expressed the belief that from the desperate condition of the world a way out would be found since "God's hand is still on the helm."

The meeting adjourned until Thursday, October 24th, instead of Friday, the 25th as the County Federation will be held at Quakertown on the 25th. Delegates to the Federation will be appointed, and all members are urged to attend.

ATTRACTIVE WEDDING IN ST. MARK'S CHURCH

Miss Nan Ennis Becomes The Bride of Joseph McGlynn
Here Today

A WEDDING BREAKFAST

At nine o'clock this morning with a nuptial mass, the marriage of Miss Nan Ennis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Ennis, 523 Maple street, and Joseph McGlynn, son of Mrs. Rose McGlynn, 916 Cedar street, was solemnized at St. Mark's R. C. Church.

The Rev. E. Paul Baird, assistant rector of the parish, performed the ceremony and the organist of the church, Miss Catherine Keating, played the wedding marches and accompanied the soloists, John Kelly of Philadelphia, and Miss Cecilia Kelly, Bristol.

"Ave Maria," "Oh, Promise Me," and "Oh Lord I Am Not Worthy," were sung during the ceremony.

Mrs. McGlynn was attended by her sister, Mrs. Joseph Waugh, Olney, as matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Mrs. John Gilligan, Abington, a cousin of the bride, and Miss Mary Gross, Philadelphia.

William Conley, Bristol, served as best man, and the ushers were William Ennis, Bristol, brother of Mrs. McGlynn, and Roger Gillespie, Philadelphia, the bride's cousin.

Mrs. McGlynn was given in marriage by her father, John P. Ennis. The bride's gown was a strikingly simple one of white transparent velvet. A motif of pearls encircled the round neckline. The sleeves, with drop shoulders, had long full puffs falling below the elbows, from which long tight cuffs ended in points on the wrists. The body was made on slim, bias lines and swirled into a long train. Her veil of tulle cascaded from a bandeau of pearls and had a front drop veil to the shoulders. Mrs. McGlynn wore white mule pumps and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and valley lilies.

Mrs. Waugh, the matron of honor, wore a frock of aquamarine-toned transparent velvet made with a shoulder cape of the material. The sleeves were long, full puffs and ended in short, tight cuffs at the wrists. The model was slenderizing and bias cut and was of floor length. Her hat was of matching hue velvet with a drop veil of tulle caught up on the left side with a rhinestone clip. She carried an arm bouquet of Johanna field roses.

The bridesmaids' gowns and hats were similar to that of the matron of honor, but of coral-toned velvet. Their flowers were talisman roses. All the attendants of the bride wore sandals matching their frocks.

Following the ceremony a breakfast took place at the Wright Inn. Covers were laid for one hundred. A reception then occurred at the home of the bride's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. McGlynn are enjoying a honeymoon in New York City. The bride traveled in a suit of tree bark color with brown accessories.

Mrs. McGlynn is a graduate of Bristol High School and also of Pierce Business College, Philadelphia. She has been employed as a stenographer in the offices of Rohm & Haas Co., Inc. The groom is a graduate of St. Mark's Parochial School and has also been in the employ of Rohm & Haas.

HUNDREDS OF PHILADELPHIANS DUMPED INTO BUCKS COUNTY TO "WORK" WHILE 8000 LOCAL PERSONS ARE ON RELIEF

"Work On the Furlong-Rushland Road and the Second Street Pike Just a Farce to Provide Four Hours per Day Idling for City Jobless Who Wear Democratic Buttons — Residents In the Communities Indignant Over Waste and Ignoring of Bucks County's Jobless—Prominent Old-Time Democrat Disgusted With His Party's Wastefulness

DOYLESTOWN, Oct. 12.—In spite of the fact that 1830 Bucks county families are on the relief rolls, eight hundred Philadelphia were dumped into Bucks county yesterday as WPA workers on road projects in the most astounding move the present national and State administration has ever made locally.

Without detailed or public announcement, two Bucks county highways have been listed as the first of a major program of road and bridge improvement. They include the Swamp Road from Furlong to Rushland, and the Second Street pike from Richboro to the Anchor Hotel.

What has been described as "as near to nothing as anything that has ever been attempted," is the system the present State administration has adopted in rebuilding the highways in Bucks county that are scheduled for improvement under the WPA funds.

Since last Monday more than $12,000 of the taxpayers' money has been spent on the two roads alone, and so far as actual work is concerned, the men employed might as well have been flying kites.

Before another week has passed, additional hundreds of Philadelphians will be shipped into Bucks county on other road and bridge projects. The only Bucks county residents employed on the jobs are time-keepers, supervisors and a number of watchmen.

Next Monday, according to a well known Democratic leader busily engaged in the road projects, a large force of additional men will be sent into the county to rebuild the Jacksonville Road between Richboro and Ivyland. The Feasterville Road from Yardley to Southampton, will be rebuilt, and the Buck Road from Newtown to Southampton, is also scheduled for resurfacing.

Other roads that will be rebuilt include the Bristol Road from Eddington to Bristol and the Street Road from Neshaminy to Eddington.

Special Train Brings Them

Yesterday exactly 805 Philadelphians were transported from Wayne Junction, Phila., to Rushland by a special train of twelve cars, at a considerable expense. They included men who have been on the relief in Philadelphia, a large proportion of whom never handled a pick or shovel in their lives, and the majority wearing white collars and civilian clothes.

Their only expense to get the job on Bucks county highways is 75 cents a week carfare from their homes in Philadelphia to Wayne Junction by trolley. The rest of the trip is paid for by the government.

They work six hours a day—two of which are spent on the train. The only other expenditure they have is a "small cut," which a number of the workers said yesterday, must be paid to the ward bosses in Philadelphia who have turned in their names for relief.

Wore Kelly Buttons

Practically all of the workers yesterday wore "Kelly buttons" for Mayor." The crew of 800 in Bucks county is composed of 800 whites and colored people, about evenly divided.

Explaining the WPA projects in Bucks county, a well known Democrat yesterday stated that Philadelphia's appropriation under the latest Federal grant was $32,000,000, of which $5,000,000 was turned down by Mayor Moore. Under regulations of WPA's latest money appropriation, Philadelphia has the privilege of placing that $5,000,000 otherwise if not used in that city. As a result the $5,000,000 will be used in Bucks county on roads adjacent to Philadelphia, which will take trade and travel comfortably into the county.

No roads north of Doylestown are listed in the $5,000,000 road improvement plan.

Because of the fact that the money was originally allotted to Philadelphia, Bucks county residents cannot be employed on the road projects other than time-keepers and supervisors, a comparatively small portion of the force now working.

Appeal for Local Needs

"Yes, we sent a telegram to Harrisburg last night appealing to Governor Earle for 500 Bucks county men to be placed on the job," said a Democrat who is in close touch with the movement, "but we have not heard from them as yet." He added, however, that he did not believe that Bucks county men could be employed in large numbers on the project.

The same individual informed his interviewer that the Edison bridge would be straightened out under the WPA program, as well as construction of a new Bethlehem pike link between Sellersville and Quakertown, and the Lincoln Highway—to be a four lane road—between Jamney and Fallsington, over a new route.

One candidate for county office on the Democratic ticket, interviewed yesterday by a newspaper representative, had little to say about the importation of 800 unemployed Philadelphians other than say, "You certainly need plenty of watchmen for that gang, and I'd like to get four or five friends of mine a job watching; they will be reliable if I say so."

Lack of Preparation

About the same time, a foreman on the Furlong-Rushland job came along and stated to his interviewer, "We should have been notified of this work two or three weeks ago; why, we do not have any stone ready to put on the road now, but I cannot say anything, I'm just a foreman."

Farmers Denounce It

After a survey of the two Bucks county projects now under way, farmers and residents along the two highways almost unanimously denounced the whole affair as preposterous. With winter weather approaching, it is not likely that any of the roads will be completely finished before early Spring of next year under the present system.

A very careful inspection of the two routes yesterday showed that no "real work" is being done, and a trip over the two highways will cause any Bucks county resident, whether Republican or Democrat, to shiver in his shoes. No excuse for the enormous waste of money has been given.

Hundreds Idling Along

On the road between Furlong and Rushland, white-collared pick and shovel men were as thick as bees in a hive yesterday. Men holding red danger flags, with no crossroads near were as common as hop-toads on a summer night. Six men with brand new picks, barely scratching the road surface, of the Furlong-Rushland stretch—better than most highways in the county—were backed up by fifteen and twenty shovel "experts" leaning on the handles waiting for enough loose road material to be shoveled away.

Close to 400 were in the group on the Furlong-Rushland road yesterday, and one farmer along the highway expressed the opinion that two dozen experienced unemployed Bucks county workmen could do more work in one day than the miniature army of 400.

The utmost safety factor has been considered by the WPA heads, and as a result practically every man on the job has been furnished with a brand new pair of goggles made of shatterproof glass. The goggles were originally meant for men working in the Rushland quarries as stone crackers, but shovellers and weed-pickers along the road banks wore them too, yesterday.

White Collar Laborers

Overalls were conspicuous by their absence yesterday. Close to 70 percent of the 805 men wore white collars and civilian clothes, but the equipment they used was all brand new, including picks, lanterns, shovels and wheelbarrows.

Groups of five and ten workmen many of them who never before handled a shovel or pick, were noticed in a huddle along the Furlong-Rushland highway. Others, in small groups, were seen napping in the back of comfortable shocks, out of the sunlight.

Brand new wheelbarrows by the hundreds, a thousand shovels and another thousand new picks, 500 lanterns and stone sledges, were noticed along the trip down the two highways.

More than 200 new water containers of the latest type, bumper bottomed bottles in disguise, were quite noticeable. Each container, holding about 5 gallons of water, is carried by two husky men, with the container hanging from a new shovel.

"Last time around" is the water carriers' lone exclamation, and like magic, all within hearing drop their tools and hustle off to the water boys.

Wheelbarrows, pushed by 200-pound huskies, are not heavily loaded. They are used to transport the weeds from the gutters along the highway to farmland nearby where it is dumped. Several of the loads were inspected yesterday and none weighed over ten

TO SOUND SIREN ON HALF-SESSION DAYS

Croydon School Authorities
Will So Advise The Parents of Children

PERSONAL NEWS NOTES

CROYDON, Oct. 12.—Parents of school children are to be advised of half day sessions by the sounding of the fire siren, it has been announced by the school authorities.

It has been requested of the school authorities that some means be devised whereby parents would be informed that schools were to be on half-day sessions, during inclement weather, so that they could call at the school for their children, many of whom have a considerable distance to walk.

The matter was brought before the Parents Association and Superintendent Kines and Mr. Morgan mapped a plan whereby permission was obtained from the fire company, for the sounding of the siren.

In inclement weather, when it is decided to have school in session only a half-day, the fire siren will be sounded once at 11:45 a. m. Parents may then call at the school for their children.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Murry, Washington Crossing, N. J., spent Sunday and Monday with Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Morgan.

Mrs. James Laughlin was a visitor in Philadelphia on Wednesday.

ITALY'S TRADE NEEDS

Of the great European powers Italy is perhaps the least capable of economic self-containment. She has well developed automotive and iron and steel industries, but she imports her iron ore, iron and scrap. In the Piedmont Mountains and on some of her adjacent islands there are deposits of iron, but they are of little value, the insular deposits being small and the Piedmont deposits being almost inaccessible. Coal, for her shipping as well as her industries, Italy also imports; and cotton, petroleum and copper, too. Last year and in the first part of this year, coal represented more than 10 per cent of the total valuation of Italy's imports, and cotton a little less than 10 per cent. Of her cotton imports in 1934, 50 per cent by valuation were from the United States, as compared with 62 per cent in 1933 and 56 per cent in 1932. In recent months, shipments of American cotton to Italy have increased briskly. Metals and petroleum were also heavily imported by Italy last year from the United States.

The board administering our neutrality act has placed only the weapons of war, not the supplies of war, upon the contraband list in the event of war. Bernard S. Baruch would have everything used by a warring nation listed as contraband, from bread to bullets, but Mr. Baruch is not the neutrality act's administrator.

If the nations under the league really enforce economic sanctions against Italy, the world will have an opportunity to judge how much trade lates war when profits are in sight. Switzerland already has pleaded her long established trade relations with Italy as a reason why she should not join the sanctions movement. Maybe Switzerland's world trade will now increase briskly.

CHILDREN'S HOME WORK

Among foremost educators the desirability of abolishing home work requirements for pupils is seriously discussed. In a recent radio address an official of the United Parents' Association, of New York, said that requiring children to have definite study periods at home is coming to be considered "one of the greatest contributing factors to retardation and the cause of a high percentage of truancy."

More serious, perhaps, is the evil effect of depriving childhood of its right to normal playtime and to early bedtime.

HOLLYWOOD—Sylvia Sidney is in bad with the boys who cover the picture syndicates. At a late spot the other evening, she told them to get those cameras away—and in no uncertain terms. At the airport, on her way to marry Bennett Cerf, she refused to pose and hid her face when attempts were made to snap pictures. The boys with the cameras have the last word, though—all the proof you need are those ghastly shots taken of Joan Crawford in New York.

Don't be surprised to hear of a deal for Joe Louis to appear in Paramount's all-Negro musical, "The Chocolate Princess." A Broadway theatrical agent has dropped the hint that the Brown Bomber and his pretty bride are very much interested in the idea of the film, and might be persuaded to act in it together. The proposition was received enthusiastically in certain studio quarters. Of course, Paramount was stung on Max Baer, but the picture is one of Lubitsch's pets and it looks as if an offer may be made to Louis any minute.

The John Barrymore repose is being shattered again, this time by emissaries of Warner Brothers, who are trying to talk him back to the screen in the part of Don Luis in "Anthony Adverse." Don Luis is the elderly nobleman, who was married to the hero's mother.

You Asked Me and I'm Telling You! Miss L. H. Bell, Cal.: Warner Oland is really Swedish. He was born in Umea, Oct. 3, 1880. In one of his early American appearances on the stage, he portrayed Jesus of Nazareth in "The Christian." His going into Oriental roles was an accident. Back in New York, Pathe had hired a Chinese actor to play in the serial, "Patria." He proved too short and Oland was asked to take his place. He did and has been doing similar parts ever since.

Gene Raymond has been nursing an eye swollen as big as an egg, and from the weirdest cause. While he was asleep, a mosquito bit him on the upper lid. The inflammation was so bad, Gene lost a day's work at R-K-O in "Seven Keys to Baldpate." Incidentally, the star's new home, christened "Whitehall" by his mother, is developing into quite an estate. A swimming pool, bathing pavilion, tennis court, barbecue pit and recreation room are the latest additions.

All Hollywood was anxious to meet the president, but Phil Regan stole a march on everyone. He is a pal of the president's aid, Gus Gannerick, and was invited to board the train and meet R. D. R. Phil also holds one of the 14 gold plaques given to entertainers who aided the Roosevelt campaign back east.

What well-known actress is being shadowed by detectives? And, in case she doesn't know it, the reports go back to her husband.

HOLLYWOOD TICKER-TAPE—

The big gasp heard at M. G. M. was caused by the appearance of Wallace Beery, wearing a checkered English suit, a red necktie and a bowler. . . . Wallie and Mrs. Beery went dancing at the Trocadero to celebrate his return, and the stay-up-laters still are talking about his unexpected skill as a dancer. . . .

Gene Markey and Joan Bennett talked to each other three times a week while he was in London and, as their shortest conversation was 13 minutes, his bill must have been enormous. She'll take the two kids and meet him when he lands in New York. . . . Joe Morrison is an uncle, but the doctors were wrong. His sister, Mrs. Gil Horst, of South Bend, Ind., gave birth to one boy instead of the predicted twins. . . . Busby Berkeley is back on the Warner lot. . . . Paul Cavanaugh has bought a 1,000-acre ranch in Edmonton, and will take a party of Hollywood friends there to spend the Christmas holidays. . . . A hurray wire from Paul White-man is sending Song Writers Johnny Mercer and Matt Malneck back east to appear on a broadcast. They did the tunes for R-K-O's "To Beat the Band." . . . And W. C. Fields is back on the Paramount lot after his illness.

"MYSELF and ME"

"I'm the best pal I ever had;
We never have a fuss;
We like to sit and talk about
What's best for both of us."

—Adapted

Come to think of it, haven't we all dual selves? . . . One to acquire and one to bestow; one to work and one to play; one self to provide what the other self needs.

It isn't selfishness to think about yourself. It isn't arrogance to take pride in your appearance. It isn't egotism to strive to impress others. It's just good sense in the direction of self-progress—especially in business. . . .

So, tell You to give You more consideration. Spruce up! This is the season to buy new clothes. And the surest way to get the best styles and values is to "shop" through the advertisements in this newspaper—because:

The merchants and manufacturers who thus put their wares on exhibition and their prices in black-and-white cannot afford to risk their reputations by making extravagant claims for doubtful merchandise. Read and trust the advertisements. They'll help you find what you want—and save money!

Hundreds of Philadelphians Dumped Into Bucks County

pounds although the pushers of the wheelbarrows are drawing more than $60 a month for 4-hour days for that work while thousands of worthwhile projects have been ignored.

Idle Three Days

"Will you please tell me what to do," yelled one of the workmen to a newspaper representative he thought was a road boss. "I've been here for three days and I've not turned a trick; I should worry."

Partisan Partiality

"This whole affair looks like the landing of a bunch of recruits in the front lines awaiting to go over the top," a World War veteran on the side lines said yesterday. Incidentally this individual had been employed by the State Highway Department for ten years, but because he was a Republican he was fired and is now unemployed, and has been unable to get a job on the road.

Flagmen, or men waving danger signals, are very common. There are enough on the job to direct the traffic of any big college football game. Stationed at lonely intersections, these men with flags have a "tough time."

One flagman was busily engaged battling stones in the air with his flag stick as the newspaper reporter stopped and asked him how he liked his job.

"It is better than nothing," he said. "We leave Philly at 7.55 in the morning and ride to Rushland. We have thirty minutes off for dinner but we take an hour, nobody knows the difference. Then we come back and work until 2 o'clock and leave for Philly again."

Some of the workmen bring their lunches and others get their eats from nearby apple orchards.

"Terrible," Says Farm Woman

One farm woman living along the Furlong-Rushland road, when asked what she thought about the improvement of the highways, said: "This is terrible! Where is all the money coming from to pay the bill for this big gang of men? We have lots of unemployed men in Bucks county and I think they should get the first chance. They had better not take any of our property. If they do, something is going to happen."

Quarry "Mad House"

The Rushland stone quarry is nothing more than a "mad house." More than 150 men down the hole, one-half of them cracking stone by hand with hammers they would never drop if it were not for the weight of the hammer. Stevedores pushing wheelbarrows with three and four shovels of dirt and small stone, were conspicuous because of the slow canter of the pushers. By actual count, 98 men stood motionless leaning on their shovels ten minutes before the lunch period, yesterday, in the Rushland quarry hole!

Well drillers have been called into serve at the quarry to bore holes fifty feet deep for blasting purposes. The stone crusher nearby is working day and night with rush orders to keep it busy for many months. The size of the quarry will be doubled and blasting on a wholesale scale is to start today.

One of the remarkable feats of engineering on the project is the erection of a new road in the pit of the stone quarry, in spite of the fact that the surface is as smooth as concrete. Yesterday there were too many workmen in the quarry so seventy-five were put to work building a road in the bottom of the pit for trucks to travel across to load stone. For many years, experienced Bucks county road workmen have driven trucks in this quarry without a road.

Second Street Pike

The Second Street pike project is just as ridiculous, although it needs more repair than the Furlong-Rushland highway. Work was started at the Richboro end, where you find a steam roller with spikes, while the Furlong-Rushland highway is being completely broken up by hand. Gangs of fifty or more men standing three feet apart dot the Second Street pike project. Five percent and no more put in a day's work.

Children Insulted

Parents with school children, living along the Second Street pike near Richboro, were fearful yesterday for the safety of their youngsters as they walked to school during the noon recess as workmen of all nationalities cast "fresh" remarks and in some instances actually insulted the youngsters.

Ira Doan, a prominent Northampton township farmer, who worked for the highway department for fifteen years until released because of his Republican politics recently, admitted that the Second Street pike was in need of repairs, but he did not favor it being rebuilt by inexperienced Philadelphians, when there are plenty of Bucks county people out of work.

The laborers are paid twice a month it was explained yesterday. The total for laborers is $60.50 per month. Others get more. They work five days a week, 30 hours all told—including time lost in the round trip—and do not work on Saturday.

Residents Fearful

In Richboro, the residents are up-in-arms about the class of workmen being imported into the county. Housewives lock their doors at noon and property owners have to stand outside their houses so that portions of their lawns are not cut away in the road building process.

Yesterday, without asking the property owners, four feet of several 50-foot-long properties were cut away.

Democrats Disgusted

A prominent Richboro old-time Democrat, when interviewed yesterday, declared:

"What does this all mean? Who in the world is going to pay the bill? I'm disgusted. I've been a Democrat all my life but I'm ashamed of the fact when I looked over that gang today and the system that is being used. 'It simply means that they are buying votes. The Democratic party has made a grave mistake."

The men themselves are beginning to get sick of the jobs in spite of the fact there is six months more to go, at least most of it in the winter, and winter in that section of Bucks county is going to be cold. Whether the men will be transported during the winter months could not be definitely learned yesterday, but formen said they have been informed that the work will continue unless weather makes it impossible.

The special train from Wayne Junction to Rushland containing twelve cars, is paid for by the government. Yesterday it was estimated that it cost at least 50 cents per man a round trip daily to get to the job. Today, it was reported, the force of 800 will be increased to close to 1,000 men.

Detours will soon be erected on the two highways and it is not likely that the work will be finished by next Spring.

Election Time Nears

"It is near election, you know, and that is what counts about getting the men out here to work, for we are electing a Mayor in Philadelphia," one workman said yesterday.

He'll "Shoot the Works"

"Wait until I get that first check, brother, and I'll shoot you the works," remarked a happy-go-lucky workman to his companion while eating his lunch along the Second Street pike at noon. "You tellin' me?" his pal answered.

HORSE SHOW PROCEEDS TO BE USED FOR CHARITY

Announcement was made today by Bristol Riding Club officials of the selection of Clifford Hance, of Freehold, N. J., and Thomas Connors, of Trenton, N. J., as the judges in the saddle horse classes for the Fall Horse Show to be held this afternoon and tomorrow afternoon on the Laing Estate, Newport Road, West Bristol.

The judges for the hunter and jumper classes will be Welsh Strawbridge, of Hatboro, a well-known judge in national events, and Clifford Brunfield, of Ivyland. The ringmaster, who is known to horsemen the country over, will be Roland Baker, of Philadelphia, and the veterinarian will be Dr. William Lee, also from the Quaker City.

Since the program is the largest ever held in this locality, consisting of 33 classes, including saddle, hunter, jumper and farm horse events, the local club was forced to make it a two-day affair, with the show starting at 12 o'clock noon each day.

The entries received by the committee include many of the star exhibitors from the East, including Mr. and Mrs. James Hartley Nash, New York; Dr. J. Farmer, Allentown; Dr. C. T. Jones, New Lisbon, N. J., with three entries; Robert Ross, Philadelphia; Captain and Mrs. C. B. Kellogg, Princeton, N. J.; Miss Clara Mather, Hamilton Square, and Thomas Grier, of Pittman, N. J.

Other entries are: Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Williams, Miami, Fla.; Samuel McCauley, Philadelphia; Susan Gutman, New Hope; Jack Spencer, Yardley; G. Edward Barnes, also of Yardley.

Thomas Simmons, Media; Willett Shinn, Mt. Holly; E. C. Hawkes, Lansdowne; L. B. Myron, Gladwin; Sidney W. Glass, Port Kennedy, and Helen Cullen, Elkins Park.

Among the local entries are: E. J. Laing, C. F. Donnelly, Thomas Doran, C. Ralph Powell, William R. Wright, Mrs. E. J. Laing, Mrs. George Hussey, Louise Lawrence Hurd, H. B. Hanford, Parke Wetherill, Leo Schade, and Carl Schilling.

The proceeds from the show will be donated to the fund for undernourished children and tickets will be sold by American Legion Cadets. Parking space has been provided for the large crowd anticipated.

The grounds committee reports that the inside ring and the two outside courses are in splendid condition, light and fast due to the fine weather, and expect a thrilling time during the running of the eight furlong steeplechase race to be run on Sunday.

Refreshment stands have been erected to cater to the spectators, where lunch and other refreshments will be served. Additional stalls have also been erected in the spacious stables to care for the visiting horses.

Hero of the Hawkeyes

By BURNLEY

If Dick Crayne of Iowa had played behind a line such as Alabama, Minnesota or Ohio State boasted last year, nothing in the world would have kept him off the various all-American teams. If he had been given even fair blocking, there is no telling how many yards he could have gained and how many touchdowns would have been credited to him.

As it was, the classy and talented Hawkeye fullback was perhaps the most consistently effective performer of all the nation's backfield men in 1934. He led Iowa's scorers for the second year in a row with 42 points, chalking up about half of his team's touchdowns. He averaged nearly three and a half yards a plunge in his ball-carrying efforts, despite the pitifully weak wall in front of him, and in the other offensive departments of punting and passing he was unexcelled.

All but one of Iowa's scoring passes were hurled by this needle-threading thrower, and one of his tosses accounted for the longest forward passing gain in Iowa's football history—a total advance of 68 yards. His punting was always good; one phenomenal kick going 162 yards from behind his own goal line, landing out of bounds on Indiana's five-yard line. If Coach Ossie Solem can only put some fair men in front of this hurtling Hawkeye hero, Mister Crayne will finally come into his own in his last season on the college gridiron. A six-footer who weighs 190 pounds, Dick is solidly built and very hard to hurt.

Iowa's chances to emerge from the cellar of the Big Ten depend on Solem's ability to provide a little good blocking for both Crayne and the once highly-touted Oze Simmons, who was a bust last year largely because of his inadequate supporting cast.

CARDINAL AND GRAY TO FACE BRYN ATHYN

By Jack Orr

With two consecutive victories safely tucked under their belt the Bristol high school bunnies meet what is probably the toughest team on their schedule in the form of the Bryn Athyn Academy, one of the strongest teams in the Inter-Academic League.

The Maroon and White feature a strong aerial attack and Coach "Bill" Dougherty of the local Cardinal and Gray gridgers expects to counter this attack with a passing combination of his own.

Bryn Athyn swung into action last Saturday, furnishing the superior Episcopal Academy eleven with some strong opposition but losing a tough ball game by the count of 13-0. The visitors are confident they will snap their losing streak of one game and get back on the right track.

A large crowd is expected to see the localities in their attempt to make it three straight. The Bristol Cadets will parade before the fray and at half time. Opening kick-off 2:15.

Tentative line-up:

Bristol	Bryn Athyn
Messinelli	Woerner
Moran	Nellins
Profy	Shuppert
Mignoni	Becket
Shiffer	Hibbs
Gallato	Jacobs
Carnvale	White
Sagolia	McFolan
Zefferi	Brown
Zefferi	Marr
Conti	DeMarrie

DISCUSSES THE HUNTER EQUIPMENT AND ACTION

By Frank E. Crohe

With the opening of the pheasant season the first of November, it reminds us that it is time to take stock of our guns, ammunition and hunting clothes especially that old discolored hunting coat, to see if all seams are tight so there is no possible chance of that old cock pheasant slipping out after you had made such a long hard shot to kill him and the skeptical expression your friends will register if you attempt to explain to them how it happened.

Well if you are one of the average hunters, like myself, you will get that old coat and go off in a corner and if necessary do the mending yourself. If you are like most men the stitching will be like mine, crude but boy! how it will hold and if you are careful and pick up all the bits and hide the coat in the back of the closet, its likely you will get by without any argument from the Missus. And don't depend too much on those old water soaked shot-gun shells you had left over from last year. They may go off all right, but the trouble comes when you attempt to remove the empty shell.

I find the following implements quite essential when using old water soaked shells; one one-ounce ball of lead, one shot-gun cleaning rod, one piece type; one pair of pliers, one pocket knife, combination type, which shall include screw driver, file, can opener and with at least four knife blades, also one vise, plumber's type, so you can fasten it to a fence post or old log. If you do not possess the above implements I would advise you to have a good gunsmith to accompany you the opening day of the pheasant season.

I am going to give you an idea of what I think a pair of hunting pants should consist of: first the front should be waterproof. I do not mean those that will shed water for an hour or two, but a pair that will shed water all day, the most important place to me is from the bottom edge of the hunting coat to about six inches below the knee. The method is no doubt old to some of you, but I feel it will be of help to others. Take pants and turn inside out, now measure the distance five inches above the bottom edge of coat to six inches below the knee, now measure across the leg from inside seam to outside seam, next take piece of cloth or muslin the width from seam to seam and the length should be five inches above the bottom edge of coat to six inches below the knee, next take old inner tube, cut the same as lining, insert inside of lining and stitch outside and inside seam but do not stitch across, you will now have a pair of pants that water or briars will not go through.

Inside of these pants should be a man that will give the game he pursues an even break, regardless of what species it may be. Do not attempt to have your fellowmen believe you are a sportsman, only to have them find you a game hog as they will surely do if you are in that class. There is actual value in one hen pheasant than there is in a cock pheasant, so the next time you flush a hen pheasant and decide to kill it consider the unborn generations you will destroy. The State Game Commission has given the Bucks County Federation some 2500 pheasants to liberate, practically all of these birds have been liberated. They consist of both hen and cock pheasants and were given to the nine clubs, when just a few weeks old, and taken care of at the expense of each club until they were old enough to liberate. The expense per bird amounted to about 11 cents, the loss was but 41 birds out of the 2500.

Our newly organized Game Commission with Major Nicholas Biddle as the president seems to think that by having the full month of November to shoot pheasant that the number of men in the field would be no greater than under the staggered system. A number of sportsmen that I have consulted feel that it gives the game law violator a much better chance to carry out his tactics. With a large number of men in the field with the staggered system, the game hog is more apt to be caught in the act by a sportsman that may not have the nerve to inform on him but will pass the word to his fellow hunters and it is not long before the law will catch up with this self-praised meat band. This type of hunter is in the same class with the game wardens, his deputies and the justices of the peace who make a practice of prosecuting young boys and protect private club officials who accept fish or game that the sportsmen's money has paid for. The wardens and their deputies who will not arrest them as they come has but a short time to carry on this favoritism. Regarding your game warden do not be misled by any one asking you to sign a petition to have your warden or deputies removed until you find out if the carrier of this petition has ever been arrested for any game law violation, or if the man he proposes for warden has a clean record.

You dyed-in-the-wool deer hunters that go into Pike County each year, no doubt know by this time that Pike County is the only county east of the Susquehanna River that will be open to the killing of antlerless deer for December 12, 13, 14. It means that the deer herd of Pike County must stand the blunt of not only the resident hunters of the eastern part of the state but the non-resident hunters of eastern New York as well, as the non-resident hunters of New Jersey. Major Biddle stated that they planned to open Monroe County but due to some unknown power the Game Commission was forced to abandon their intentions regarding the opening of the season on antlerless deer in that county. The deer herd of Pike County is ridiculously small at present as compared with the size of the herd before the opening of the last antlerless deer season at which time a large percentage of the hunters of this state gave one of the most disgraceful exhibitions of sportsmanship since the slaughter and extermination of the passenger pigeon.

A good percentage of the deer hunters of experience knew that a deer to weigh 40 pounds dressed, had to be of fair size and he picked his deer before he shot. Most of these same men you could not pay to shoot another antlerless deer, and I am not making apologies for any of my friends or acquaintances.

You can ride through our State Forest in Pike County for miles and in most cases you will see but very few deer, but when you get into private property you will see large numbers of them and you will not see one in 50 that will not be in good healthy condition, regardless of what time of year it may be. Ninety per cent of these property owners sign their places off during the hunting season. The State Forest Department along with the State Game Department informs us that the deer are suffering from malnutrition and a large number are starving, each winter. There will always be a natural death rate among our wild animals, the same as with our domestic animals regardless of the number of any specie.

The State Forest Department is not interested in our deer herd, so our Game Commission must satisfy them in some manner so they decide to reduce the number of deer in the easiest way, hence the antlerless deer season. I am not writing of what I read but of 20 years experience as a deer hunter and regardless of what statistics the departments may show, I challenge the heads of either department to go into Pike County with me at any season of the year, except shortly after the opening of the deer season and show any number of dead deer. And when I say the heads of these departments I do not mean their field men, but I will take these same men into Pike County including their field men the day after the antlerless deer season closes and show them plenty of spike bucks that are shot and left to rot, and I do not mean on State Forest grounds only, but private property as well. Our State Game Department must depend on our State Forest and privately owned property for its licensed hunters to hunt on so naturally they must abide by their ruling.

As our Game Commission has no way of trapping deer and they claim the deer will not move from one county to another in search of food it is only natural when the deer are shot off in any one county that it will be necessary for the Game Commission to buy new stock from some State that does have some method of trapping deer, and it means that the hunters must pay for a big game license as the Department does not have available money to purchase new stock.

ST. ANN'S GRIDGERS TO FACE ST. CECILIA ELEVEN

Facing its first major opponent of the season, St. Ann's gridiron team will try for its second victory of the season tomorrow, meeting the strong St. Cecilia team on the local field, Garden street and Jefferson avenue.

Followers of the Purple and Gold were amazed at the strong offensive set forth by the localities in their win over the Wanita Indians last Sunday and feel that the team has finally hit its stride and are ready to chalk up their quota of wins.

The St. Ann's line has been strengthened by the acquisition of "Reds" McCurry and "Kenny" Dyer. Dyer is a center and will share this post with Rocco Accardi. McCurry can be used at any post in the line. Several backfield men will be in uniform and ready for action. They are: Johnny Salerno, Dick Seneca, and Nickie Biancosino. Seneca has recovered from a shoulder injury. Another lineman who looked good in practice was Tommy Liberty. Liberty will receive his chance against the St. Cecilia team.

Coach Bill Dougherty is undecided as to whom he will place in the starting lineup but every player will see action before the tilt is over. Opening kickoff is scheduled for 2:30 o'clock sharp.

LAST BOWLING MATCHES SCHEDULED FOR MONDAY

The four bowling leagues enter the last matches of the first round beginning Monday evening, when the two most important matches will see Rohm & Haas vs. Knights of Columbus of the National League face each other. Neither team has lost a game, although Rohm & Haas shows four defeats, which is the result of a misunderstanding regarding a postponement which the Asco team not being notified of and claimed the four points by virtue of a forfeit. This will be definitely settled at the next regular meeting.

In the Federal League the Madisons will face J. A. C. and the result being who the leader at the end of the first round will be. The Madisons are going along fine and will endeavor to trounce J. A. C. who are their greatest rivals for the lead. Last year the Madisons occupied the cellar most of the season, but were good sports and always were dependable. This year they expect to reverse their position and have a good start.

Tuesday evening at 7:15, the Bristol Bowling Association will hold an important business meeting at the Recreation Center and all representatives are requested to be present at this time, in order not to interfere with the league games which start at 7:45.
